ALASKA GIRL IS MARRIED HERE
 Miss Frances Shepard Joins B. B. Nieding, of Mexico, and Is Wedded.

From snowbound Alaska to sunny Chihuahua is a long leap for the little girl of love to make, but he spanned the meridians on the globe in one bound today when B. B. Nieding, mining expert for the San Toy Mining company, of Chihuahua, and Miss Mary Frances Shepard, daughter of the customs collector at Juneau, Alaska, were united in marriage by Rev. Henry Easter at St. Clement's Episcopal church.

Nieding, a graduate of Case Scientific school, of Cleveland, an athlete while in college, and a fraternity man, trekked over the frozen north after leaving school and there met Miss Shepard, who was living with her parents in Juneau, Alaska, next door to the home of the bride.

The two young people came to know each other in the north country, where companions were scarce and friends few.

Then Nieding accepted a position as superintendent of the Juarez mine of the San Toy Mining company, of Chihuahua, Mex., and left the frigid north for the tropical sun of Mexico.

Frequent correspondence, followed with the assistance of an international mail service extending from Chihuahua to Juneau, Friday Miss Shepard, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. H. R. Shepard, arrived in El Paso. Nieding arrived the same day. Arrangements were made for the marriage, and took place this afternoon in the presence of a few friends of the young people. They will leave Tuesday for Chihuahua, where they expect to make their home.

P. E. Nieding, a brother of the groom, who is also employed with the San Toy company as a mining engineer, arrived this morning for the ceremony. Nieding is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity and was a member of the crack case football team for the same day. Arrangements were made for the marriage, and took place this afternoon in the presence of a few friends of the young people. They will leave Tuesday for Chihuahua, where they expect to make their home.

RAILROAD NEWS. EDUCATING MEN FOR RAILROADS

United States Government Issues an Essay on the Subject.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—"The true will come when railroad employment for every man in the service will not mean drudgery, nor insecure, nor accidental opportunity, but an enlightened, stimulating, highly efficient service of highest earning power, least uncertainty from accidental causes, largest freedom for individual initiative, entire self-respect and thoroughly democratic spirit."

With this conclusion J. Stanley Eaton, former statistician of the League Valley railroad, has produced a lengthy monograph for the United States bureau of education on "Education for Efficiency in Railroad Service," which commissioner Elmer E. Brown has submitted to the secretary of the interior. In his letter of transmittal commissioner Brown says the subject of educational preparation for definite occupations in life, and particularly for the several trades, is under serious consideration in the United States. The relation of trade education to general education is one of the important aspects of that question. This monograph was summarized by president Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia university, in saying: "What science and practical life alike need is not narrow men, but broad men sharpened to the point."

"The advance made in the present decade in the subject of education for railroad service is very surprising to those who may not be informed," says Mr. Eaton. "It is a good thing that the subject are now being considered and conflicting. The relation between education and efficiency in railroad service is coming to be generally conceded."

"The railroad service in the United States has shortly reached a total of 2,000,000 men. It is the largest and most highly organized example of associate effort in an epoch conspicuous for industrial and commercial concentration. It is a broad sense must always be a large factor."

BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOOT COMPANION
 While hunting near Clint shortly after noon Sunday, Edmund Sanchez, a 10 year old El Paso Mexican boy, accidentally shot and seriously wounded Panclano Ramirez, of Clint, the same age.

The boys were hunting with a .22 caliber Flobert rifle, Sanchez carrying the gun while his companion had the cartridges.

They were near the road and the Sanchez boy was holding the rifle when an automobile scared him and he accidentally pulled the trigger which sent a bullet into the breast of his companion.

Ramirez was immediately taken to his home at Clint, where he is reported to be in a serious condition. Sanchez was brought to El Paso this morning by deputy sheriff Francisco Villalobos and when arraigned before Judge Elyar was released in the custody of his mother on condition that he appear in court whenever required.

LOOKING FOR OPIUM SMUGGLERS

Officials in California Suspect Smuggling From El Paso.

Custom officials in San Francisco are looking for three slant-eyed celestials having as many trunks in which they thought to be quantities of Juarez opium that was smuggled across the border here and transported to San Francisco's Chinatown for the relief of the opium famine that has been threatening that piteously strangled for many Chinese moon.

The three Chinese smugglers are thought to have left El Paso on the night of the 20th of January. Advice was received here that they passed Los Angeles on the night of the 21st and were due in Frisco on Saturday, the 22d. The trunks were shipped ahead to allay any suspicion a hard hearted custom inspector here might have and the San Francisco government men are watching for the Chinese boys when they go to claim their trunks.

Opium is now selling at from $30 a can up, on the American market and hard to get at any price. In Juarez it retails for from $7 to $9. REVOLUTION IS SENATOR'S TALK
 Believes Meat Trouble May Result in Something Very Serious.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 24.—"Revolutions have started by less than the American people are suffering now," declared senator Joseph L. Bristow, of Kansas. "Meat fumes up to a quarter of the average household expenses, and it ought to be cheaper instead of dearer than it was 25 years ago, because of greater economy in its preparation and sale. When I was a boy 25 percent of the carcass went to waste. Now nothing goes to waste."

Senator Bristow's words crystallize the sentiment of protest in all parts of the country against the high cost of living. Against public clamor, the packers reply that high prices for meats are attributable to the high prices of corn and advocate that the poor be educated to eat cheaper cuts.

"These cuts are just as good and more wholesome if properly cooked," says Harold Smith, of Swift & Co. "Prices are very high, but there is every indication that they will go higher."

ALLEGED BUNCO MAN ARRESTED IN JUAREZ
 Men Returning From Section Work Are Victims of Smooth One.

That the film flim art is not entirely confined to the American world of graft is evident in the case of two brothers who met a real Mexican bunco man on El Paso street Sunday morning.

"I'll change your money for you," quoth the bunco man. The two trusting youths, Cyvetani and Felix Perez, just returned from a month's work on the "section," handed the new found friend their pocketbooks. The friend changed the money all right. He changed it from their pocketbooks to his pocket.
